

I happily pay good money for my XM radio because it offers the programming & content I want. I vehemently oppose any attempt to restrict or censor the content of XM radio. If the NAB is unable to compete, even though they offer ?free? service, why do they deserve special government protection?!Respectfully,
Stephen Vining